HELSINKI, Jan. 24.—Doctors, nurses and invalids were among 31 persons killed in hospital shelters during Soviet Russian air attacks on the Finnish towns of Nurmes and Hyrynsalmi, according to reports received in Helsinki today.

The raids were carried out as part of a general Russian aerial offensive that rained bombs on ten separate Finnish districts.

Finnish sources claimed that ten buildings were destroyed by the Russians, who dropped 400 bombs, only to have nine of their bombers shot down.

The casualties resulted from direct hits on the shelters, it was stated.

Claim Military Successes

Meanwhile, the Finnish high command claimed military successes on the eastern frontier north of Lake Ladoga, including the killing of 1,000 Russian troops.

Members of the library staff are confronted quite frequently with the job of telling some person who has wandered into the building to buy a postage stamp that the post office is no longer located there, but may be found on the public square.

Moderation of the sub-zero weather conditions yesterday, allowed a resumption of building work at several projects around the city, Pa. New observes. The frigid weather halted all work on outside building projects for several days.

Going up Jefferson street on Tuesday afternoon was a huge truck-trailer effect that looked like a miniature train had taken over the streets for operation. The truck and trailer were propelled by an engine that had an overhead exhaust, and smoke was issuing from the pipe. The mechanism had a total of eighteen huge wheels, and was apparently hauling a heavy load of steel.

Entire Crew Is Lost As Destroyer Sinks

(International News Service)
LONDON, Jan. 24.—Still another naval treaty was marked up to the cost of the war by Great Britain today with announcement by the admiralty that the 1,475-ton destroyer Exmouth went down after being mined or torpedoed with the apparent loss of all 175 or 200 members of its crew.

The latest blow at the British navy was announced in this communique:

"The secretary of the admiralty regrets to announce that his majesty's destroyer Exmouth, Captain R. S. Benson, has been sunk by a mine or torpedo and it is feared there are no survivors. The next of kin have been informed."

While the announcement gave no further details, the London Daily Mail said the vessel was sunk in the North sea.

The normal complement of the Exmouth was 175 men. But it was believed that the destroyer, a flotilla leader, carried an extra war-time quota, bringing its crew to about 200 men.

Snow Falls On Alabama; Moves Into Pennsylvania

(International News Service)
SNOW that fell on Alabama with paralyzing results for the surprised south and moved into Pennsylvania today with a welcome moderating temperature.

Across the Keystone State the weather man's forecast was the same—snow and colder.

Light by comparison with its fall below the Mason and Dixon Line, the snowfall at Pittsburgh reached an official city total at 7:30 a. m. of only seven-tenths of an inch, while the Municipal Airport reported 1.3 inches. Eight to 16 inches of snow fell in the southern belt.

More Snow Expected

More was expected to move in from the south as the day wore on but unofficial indications were that the snowfall would not approach that recorded in the mid-south.

As against the lows of eight and nine below a few days ago, the temperature as commuters began to move in Pittsburgh this morning was 22 above. Similar readings were reported at Harrisburg and Philadelphia.

Although the temperature moderation alleviated general suffering among the needy, Mrs. Becky Levinthal, 70, of Philadelphia, died of the cold in her room.

Streams in every section of the state remained ice-jammed but flood experts pointed out that barring freak weather developments—mainly a combination of thaw and excessive rain—there was no cause to fear a general flood.

SURVIVORS TELLS JURY ABOUT CRASH

After hearing the testimony of witnesses to the fatal collision near UN Tower, West Pittsburg, on the B. & O. railroad, Wednesday evening, January 17, short after 8:10 o'clock, a coroner's jury impaneled by Dr. T. Frank Nugent, county coroner, in the court room of Alderman L. C. Mantz last evening brought in a verdict in which they stated that they were unable to fix any blame for the deaths of the three trainmen killed in the collision, from the evidence which had been produced.

The men who met their deaths were: Engineer H. W. Bowser, Fireman C. S. Kunkle and Brakeman T. B. Welty. Two others were injured in the collision, but not seriously.

Witnesses Heard

The witnesses examined included Terminal Trainmaster J. Frank Cable, Towerman Leo Dover and the three members of the crew of the other train riding in the engine involved in the collision, Engineer J. W. Frizzell, Fireman J. D. Fox and Head Brakeman W. W. Reed.

Towerman Dover explained the workings of the interlocking system, under which the trains operate in the vicinity of his tower. He explained that he had received the signal that RT 89 was coming into the yards and set up his plant accordingly. About the same time that RT 89 hit the circuit, Buffalo 94, going east, called for signals.

It was given a "luna white" bloc, which is a dwarf signal extending but a few feet above the tracks, permitting it to proceed with restricted speed to within vision of the advance home block, which was the red target approximately 420 feet north of the crossover switch. As train Buffalo 94 went past, the engineer received his orders at the tower and kept on going down the track at a moderate rate of speed. When it was within about three car lengths of the target, it became apparent to the towerman that it was not going to stop, and Mr. Dover tinner received his orders at the tower and kept on going down the track at a moderate rate of speed. No. 3—Postal Receipts

An interesting indicator of business conditions in a city or section ordinarily used with others in drawing a complete picture is postal receipts.

The presence of variation in postal receipts from year to year ordinarily is not as great as is the case in some of the other indicators but it is, without question, generally indicative of current conditions except in those places where a very large per cent of the total receipts is a result of the character of some large single business which ships a substantial portion of its product by parcel post.

ARREST MAN WHO REPORTED SIGNAL

(International News Service)
VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Jan. 24.—Seven coast guard vessels today abandoned an all night search for an unidentified passenger vessel reported "sinking with 146 passengers aboard" between Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard after a retired army captain who assertedly claimed he had picked up the distress signal on his radio had been arrested on an intoxication charge.

Coast guard and state police thought the call was either a hoax or the captain picked up a broadcast referring to the distress signal sent out by the freighter Albert Hill of Philadelphia, which reported its steering gear broken in the Atlantic 100 miles east of Cape Charles, Va. Captain Byron Brown, who lives in West Tisbury, was arrested by two state troopers armed with an intoxication warrant from the district county clerk and locked up at Edgartown jail.

Only Information

Coast guard headquarters said that their only information regarding the sinking ship had come from "One of our outposts along the Lauter river repulsed enemy units which came into contact with it," the bulletin said.

Chamberlain Evasive Upon Belgian Aid

(International News Service)
LONDON, Jan. 24.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today refused to back up the recent declaration of Gen. Lord Gort, commander of the British Expeditionary Force, that British guarantees to Belgium would be backed up "like lightning" if Belgium were the victim of aggression.

Chamberlain skirted this issue in the House of Commons, just as he dodged a question of the possibility of breaking off relations with Russia on the Finnish question.

Asked whether Lord Gort's statement to a Belgian newspaper last week represented the views of the British government, Chamberlain went into a recital of various treaties and declarations under which Britain undertook to assist Belgium immediately in case of aggression.

The question of implementing those guarantees, in the event such action is needed, "is receiving the full attention" of the government, he said.

But, Chamberlain stressed, Britain must retain the right to decide what constituted aggression or threatened attack.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 24.—John L. Lewis, head of the C. I. O. labor faction and president of the powerful United Mine Workers union, declared today that he believes President Roosevelt will not seek a third term but that should he be re-nominated "his candidacy would result in ignominious defeat."

Republican Trend

Lewis said there was now current an unmistakable Republican trend in the powerful midwestern and eastern states whose electoral vote is considered vital to the success of any candidate. He listed these states as New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, New Jersey and Indiana.

This trend can be checked, he said, only by an accord between the Democrats and organized labor which, written into the national platform, must be backed up by "guarantees of good faith."

Lewis made the assertion while delivering a stinging indictment of the Democratic party before the golden jubilee convention of the United Mine Workers.

Editor's Note: Political observers were quick to interpret Lewis' remarks as the final break between the CIO and the national administration as now constituted. During the "little steel" strike a few years back, Lewis took his first crack at the president for the latter's "a plague of both your houses" remark.

Britain Will Warn Rumania About Oil Shipments To Reich

(International News Service)
LONDON, Jan. 24.—Closely watching German efforts to increase her oil imports from Rumania, the British government maintained continuous contact with Bucharest today.

No actual protest has yet been made, but it was reported Britain will warn Rumania against larger oil exports to the Reich if the Rumanian government wishes to receive economic aid from England and France.

Well informed British circles were skeptical of Rumania assurances that all economic measures are dictated solely by Rumania's internal needs and thus should not cause apprehension abroad.

London circles claimed to have definite evidence that British and French firms have been refused Rumanian export licenses.

ABANDON SEARCH FOR SUPPOSED SINKING VESSEL

Captain Brown, who said that he had picked up the distress message on his ordinary home radio. An all night search failed to reveal any trace of the vessel and the seven coast guard boats and the navy destroyer Breckenridge were recalled.

Captain Brown, who was retired from the army because of wounds received in action, allegedly said that he was listening to his home-made radio when he heard voices ask for help in the following message:

"Send assistance immediately. We are sinking. We have 146 aboard and are half way between Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard."

Captain Brown identified the voices as those of the captain of the vessel and the radio man but could not remember their names.

No Signal Received

The Radio Marine Corporation station at Chatham, which ordinarily receives distress calls, declared that no vessel of the class described would be using voice radio to call for help. No distress signal was received at Chatham.

In the face of prolonged questioning by state police, however, Captain Brown insisted that his version of the distress call was accurate.

Later, it was learned that Mackay radio station at Thomaston, Me., had picked up the distress call from the Albert Hill about the same time as Captain Brown reported hearing a call for help.

A Nantucket fishing vessel, with six men aboard, has been missing. The fisherman, the Anna C. sued in Moscow said patrols were active in the Ikhta and Repola sections and that some infantry activity occurred in the Petrosavodsk region, along with artillery fire and patrol activity on the Karelian Isthmus. Russian planes, the bulletin added, carried out reconnaissance and combat flights.

Details of the air raids revealed that the casualties and damage were relatively unimportant. Save at Nurmes and Hyrynsalmi. In the former town, situated near the eastern Finnish frontier, 19 persons were killed instantly when the shelter was struck by a bomb and all the remaining 31 persons in the shelter were wounded.

Hard Fighting

Hard fighting was still reported in progress along the 50-mile front north of Lake Ladoga where Russian counter-attacks were claimed to have been repulsed with heavy losses. In addition, the Finns said, they destroyed many Soviet tanks, and captured a number of Russian positions.

Especially hard fighting raged in the Kollanajoki sector where the Finns advanced along a single railway. It was here that the 1,000 Russians were claimed to have perished under the Finnish onslaught.

Amid crashing artillery fire on the Karelian Isthmus, a Russian attack was repulsed.

This afternoon it appeared that operations just north of Lake Ladoga were assuming the proportions of a major battle with the Russians doing everything in their power to advance in a far-flung maneuver aimed at outflanking the Mannerheim line.

So far, it was reported, the Finns have successfully resisted the latest Russian drive.

On the Salla front to the north fighting was still progressing and it was indicated that the Russians were retreating skillfully, thereby preventing the Finns from encircling and trapping the Soviet forces.

December 1938 although it did exceed those of all other Decembers covered in the tabulation.

Further, it is interesting to know that during 1939 the monthly receipts for eight individual months exceeded those for the corresponding months in 1938, which indicates a strength of position that does not exist when the total yearly increase is dependent upon results of one unusually large month.

This is also probably the only indicator that will show an increase for 1939 over that for 1929, but this result is in line with that of other cities which probably indicates a growing use of parcel post for merchandise shipments.

The CIO leaders' third-term observations came after he had painted a rather dismal picture of the future and accused the Democratic party of "breaking faith" with coalition interests which he said were responsible for its being placed in power seven years ago.

"I am one who believes that President Roosevelt will not be a candidate for re-election," he said in summation.

Of this number, 172, or 68 per cent, had clear records for the entire year.

Wives of the operators and officials of the three companies met with the men to participate in the celebration of the 1939 achievement for safety. The only speaker was Mr. Graham. In addition to the awards to New Castle operators he presented diamond rings to 21 other operators who had established ten-year records of freedom from accident and seven pocket watches to men who had made five-year records.

In making the presentations he paid a tribute to the care with which the cars and busses had been operated in all three cities. Chargeable accidents last year, he pointed out, had been reduced markedly from the level of 1938. The number in 1939 was 128, or 147 per cent, lower than the 150 registered in 1938. In making this fine improvement the miles operated per chargeable accident was raised from 38,516 in 1938 to 44,419 in 1939.

Following the dinners a program of entertainment was given by well known radio and stage performers.

Four Persons Are Burned In Fire At Vineland, N. J.

Damage Of $125,000 Reported As Fire Sweeps Through Row Of Five Buildings

(International News Service)
VINELAND, N. J., Jan. 24.—Four persons were burned and damage estimated at $125,000 was done today when flames, fanned to great intensity by a snow laden gale, swept through a row of five buildings and a lunch car in the heart of the Vineland business district.

More than 100 firemen, hampered by five inches of snow, battled the stubborn blaze for three hours in sub-freezing temperatures before checking its progress.

None of the injured, all residents of the destroyed structures, was burned seriously.

The fire, believed to have been started from an exploding kerosene stove, swept through the two-story brick Sheffer building, a lunch car owned by the Richman Ice Cream Co., an Arrow Cleaning and Dyeing store, the jewelry store of Howard Enteken, and the office of Miss Jane Comins, a motor vehicle agent.

There are 3,000,000 lepers in the world today, only about two per cent of them being in leprosariums (sanitariums) for their care.

'Thrift Luncheon' Held At Tifereth Israel Success

The spirit of fellowship was felt Tuesday at one of the most successful social functions undertaken by the local chapter of Hadassah, when they entertained in the assembly rooms of Tifereth Israel Synagogue guests numbering nearly 120, at their sixth annual "Thrill Luncheon." With everything donated, the entire proceeds of which will be utilized for the benefit of the undernourished and refugee school children in Palestine, were most gratifying.

Rabbi Norman H. Diamond, of Temple Israel, offered the invocation, and following, the group sat down at prettily appointed tables with tones of yellow and green predominating. A nutritious menu was served, by the committee in charge, shortly after 1 o'clock.

Program chairman, Mrs. Jack Conn, who later presided, gave a few words of welcome and told of the purpose of the luncheon. In turn, she introduced the toastmistress, Mrs. E. Kaplan.

The first feature was the singing of an appropriate "Thrill Luncheon Song" composed expressly by Mrs. Melvin L. Stark to the tune of "Oh Johnny, Oh." Mrs. Leonard Groden led and Mrs. L. Rhinehart, was the accompanist.

Greetings were heard from presidents of the different organizations represented, including, Mrs. J. Cobb, of Tifereth Israel Sisterhood; Mrs. David Silverman of Temple Israel Sisterhood; Mrs. Jack Leiby who represented the Jewish Ladies Relief; Mrs. Irvine Grossman, who gave an appropriate poem in behalf of New Castle Section National Council of Jewish Women and Mrs.

L. F. Kohn, honorary president of Hadassah who spoke most fittingly to the occasion.

At this time, a telegram from the president of Hadassah, Mrs. J. Markley, who was unable to be in attendance, was read. Two greetings were also contributed from Ellwood City, the first, by Mrs. L. Garson, president of the Hadassah chapter of that locality, and Mrs. M. Greenberg, president of the Council of Jewish women of the same vicinity.

Highlighting the afternoon was an excellent book review by their guest speaker, Mrs. Sam Hurwitz of Pittsburgh, on Pierre Von Passen's book "The Days of Our Years." She spoke of it, not as an autobiography, but termed it as a biography of our generation as it deals with the times, touching upon the conditions of every country. Mrs. Hurwitz, the possessor of a dynamic personality, was enthusiastically received.

Miss Harriet Silverman, talented artist, pleased with her presentation of Chopin's "Nocturne" adding further to the entertainment.

In conclusion, Mrs. Sam Rose, chairman of the luncheon, expressed sincere appreciation for the co-operation given by her committees, and others in making the luncheon such a fine success.

Mrs. L. F. Kohn announced that Itamar Ben Avi, famous Palestinian, who is in this country at the present time, will be heard on Tuesday night, January 30, in Tifereth Israel Synagogue. He is a famous journalist and orator and has the only Anglo-Jewish weekly in Palestine.

The singing of "America" and "Hatikvah" by the assemblage, brought the afternoon to a close.

PENNSYLVANIA'S CHAMPION FARMERS

There are those who look askance at a hog; prefer their sheep at a picturesque distance and desire no personal acquaintance with a beef except on a platter. A cabbage by the river's brim a simple cabbage is to them, but nothing more.

Not so was it, however, with 600,000 farmers and the sons and daughters of farmers who thronged the Arena at Harrisburg during six days last week of the Pennsylvania Farm Show. And only time and circumstance prevented many thousands more who would have had equal delight in sizing up grand champion sheep, beeves, ewes, sows and roosters.

Every product of Pennsylvania's agriculture—and that covers an astonishing range—was on exhibition, proof of the excellent and wise diversification of crops that makes this State one of the most important agricultural areas in the Union. Cash income of Pennsylvania's farms exceeded $260,000,000 in 1938, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

One special feature of the Farm Show this year drove home the fact that potatoes are a major crop in this State, Idaho and Maine notwithstanding. As an advertisement the State Potato Growers' Association put 1000 pounds of butter, 75 pounds of salt and 15 pounds of pepper on 40,000 baked potatoes that went to enthusiastic visitors—like hot potatoes.

They're a sane crowd, these Pennsylvania farmers, keeping their lands in good tillth and avoiding, like their forefathers, the numbing curse of the "one crop system," producing vast wealth year by year and, as the Farm Show proved, doing things better year by year; producing better hogs, better cabbages, better tobacco, better apples. They are "Grand Champions" themselves.

THREE GUESSES ON WAR DEVELOPMENTS

Some of the boys in Washington, who appear to have much time on their hands, are reported to be currently discussing three theories about the probable trend of the European war.

One version has it that Hitler will be out of power in four months, enabling the Allies to come to terms with Germany, following which the European powers and Japan will turn on Russia, liquidating the Soviet regime.

The second version is that real war will not start for about a year and a half, or until such time as the Allies believe they have real air supremacy over Germany. These theorists believe Hitler is a revolutionary, not a general, and that he is playing a waiting game in the hope of fomenting revolution in France and then beating Britain to its knees. Britain, according to airplane production trends, cannot be ready in the skies for a real war until the middle of 1941.

According to the third version, Germany is being strangled economically and must quickly risk everything on a military offensive. Germany cannot not lock horns with England and France except through Holland and Belgium. When the weather clears, Hitler will begin this push, accompanied possibly by a similar one through Norway and Sweden by Russia. The Balkans and Italy will then come in on the side of the Allies. Thus it will be all of Europe against Germany and Russia.

It is said each of these versions has support in diplomatic and intelligence reports which are highly confidential, and that version number three is the one which seems most logical to military men.

CIVILIAN PILOT TRAINING

The civilian pilot training program of the Civil Aeronautics Authority which was authorized by congress only last August has met with enthusiastic response in the 400 colleges and universities participating. More than 9,000 students have been taking lessons and 1,200 of them have reached the solo stage. Students have already flown 35,000 hours without serious accident of any kind. The C. A. A. believes that nearly 10,000 new pilots will have certificates by the middle of the summer.

It is easier to make good planes than to make competent pilots. That is said to be a weak spot in Germany's otherwise great air force; the reich cannot afford to lose many pilots because it cannot replace them with others equally good. England and France also have anxious thoughts on this phase of their war preparation.

The training of large numbers of skilled fliers in this country by means of the civilian flying program is expected to keep the supply of pilots adequate to the supply of planes. Flying here is already well developed commercially and looks toward future expansion. Americans hope that the student fliers will never have to serve in war but will have plenty of civilian flying to do, for themselves or for commercial purposes.

THE PERFECT WIFE

In the eyes of the average husband the perfect wife is one who: Gets up first in the morning, closes the windows and turns on the heat.

Makes sure that breakfast is on time and busies herself pouring coffee and superintending the service while he reads the newspaper.

Spends the morning carefully planning meals for the day and going to the grocery to make a personal selection of meats, fruits and vegetables. Inspects the house and, when necessary, calls in plumbers, carpenters and electricians.

Examines his clothes for suits in need of pressing, shirts and collars to go to the laundry, for missing buttons and holes in socks.

Devotes an hour or so to writing letters of thanks or of consolation and including him in them.

Gets a bit of relaxation and fresh air by taking a brisk walk to the postoffice to collect the mail.

Puts coal on the furnace so that the house will be nice and warm when he gets home.

Drives to school to bring the children home and, if possible, drops in for a call on his parents or other relatives.

Tidies the living room, arranges her hair and puts on a becoming dress, in anticipation of his return home.

Grooms him at the door and inquires if he is tired. Retires to the background while he looks over the mail.

Makes sure dinner will be on time, listens with rapt attention to anecdotes of his childhood, and spares him the ordeal of hearing of domestic tragedies.

And, at last, when dinner is over, collects the darned and works in silence on it, looking up now and then to admire him and to congratulate herself upon having him, while he sits engrossed in the day's news.—Baltimore Sun.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

BURY PAST MISDEEDS OF CHILD

Some time ago in this column I wrote an article pleading with my fellow parents, after they have dealt with any specific wrong-doing of the child as they saw fit, to close the issue forever, never bringing it to the child's attention again. I reminded my readers that parents are inclined, at such times, to dwell endlessly on some past wrongdoing in the child, and are especially likely to do so when we are displeased with him about some other matter. How disastrous this practice proves to be to a child is illustrated in the following letter:

"Dear Dr. Myers—I am writing this letter to you because I have to tell my troubles to somebody. One day about two years ago, when I was 12 years old, another boy and myself made the mistake of stealing something and were caught. He was the one really to blame, for he influenced me to do that."

"I am now 14 years old and during all the time since that event I have been trying to forget. But I am afraid I never will. For, you see, my mother keeps remembering that mistake, and every time I get into a fight with one of my brothers she always reminds me of it."

"My dad died when I was not quite two years old. My mother married again about five years ago and my step-dad does not take any interest in me or my brothers. I have two brothers. The oldest hates me because of that trouble. He claims I have ruined his name, so we do not speak to each other. But any chance he gets to tell me of the trouble he does, especially when we have a fight. He is 17 years old."

"My other brother is always quiet, but it is he that I fight with mostly. It is in most of these fights that my mother reminds me of that trouble."

"I have often had the urge to run away. Two times I had it so bad I almost did, but I did not have any money and did not know where to go. I write songs and expect some day to do that for a living."

"As soon as I sell a song I am going to move on my own. I want to know if I will be doing right."

"I answered him: 'While your life at home may be almost unbearable at times, I am sure you will gain most in character and personality if you can make the most of it while keeping inside of you your self-respect.'

"Do go on and write music. If you don't find a publisher right away, or even after several years, keep at it anyway. You are young and may have a glowing creative future. Sometime you may be able to prove to your parents and brothers that you have creative ability, at which time they will treat you differently."

"Be assured that your letter will make me try harder to get other parents—and I wish I could change yours—to avoid treating any child or step-child as you have been treated."

He is the sort of a fellow you'll meet at ball games, out fishing, in throngs on the street.

He's working for wages and paying his way.
Where and at what no one asks him to say.
The sort of a fellow, plain spoken and just.

Nobody stares at him trudging along;
He minds his own business and does no one wrong.

Little to boast of, but nothing to dodge!

Navy Secretary Swanson told a story about the bootleg booze that continues to be sold.

"A liquor dealer," he said, "took a sample bottle of French brandy to a chemist."

"Analyze this for me," the dealer said. The chemist analyzed it for him. The dealer went back in a day or two.

"That French brandy you analyzed was wonderful, wasn't it?" he asked.

"Wonderful for fair," said the chemist. "Just like a guinea-pig."

"Like a guinea-pig? How so?"

"Because," the chemist explained, "a guinea-pig isn't a pig, and it doesn't come from Guinea."

Readers' Questions Answered
Dear Miss Markel: Please suggest formal clothes to be worn by men to day time affairs?—Bob.

Answer: The business or sack suit should be worn at all informal day or evening affairs. At daytime functions requiring formal clothes, wear the following attire: Dark oxford gray or black cut-away coat. Many men, however, now wear, instead, dark oxford gray or black sack coats, which are perfectly correct, with the same trousers prescribed for a cut-away. Such trousers should be of gray and black stripe or black with white stripes. The waistcoat may be of black cloth to match the coat; or in Spring and Summer of white pique. To be technically proper a high silk hat should be worn with a cutaway although a homburg or a derby is preferable with the formal sack coat combination. Gloves should be of suede or mocha. And any of the following ties are permissible: Black, black and white or gray bow; or a black and white four-in-hand. Spats, if worn at all, should be of either white or sand linen; white if a white waistcoat is worn. Shoes should be of black patent leather or black calf-skin oxfords. A shirt of plain white (stiff or pleated bosom) with wing collar is in good taste. If the weather requires a topcoat, it should be a single or double-breasted Chesterfield, in black, midnight blue or dark gray.

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader enclosing self-addressed three-cent stamped envelope.

Nye's Presidential Chances Poor
Geography Rules Him From Scene
North Dakotan Moderately Liberal

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, JAN. 24
SENATOR GERALD P. NYE of North Dakota took an entirely unnecessary precaution the other day when, in declaring his preference for Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan as the Republicans' 1940 presidential nominee, he added that, so far as he himself is concerned, he isn't a candidate. He's perfectly safe; the G. O. P. won't name him not at the head of its ticket, anyway.

Not that Nye wouldn't make a good president. His geography is what's the matter with him; not his quality.

North Dakota hasn't enough convention votes to win a shotgun and it already is dependably Republican. There's no need for the party to make a bid for its wee little handful of ballots by picking Gerald as its national standard bearer.

It's true that he's been vociferously mentioned, but not vociferously and not by any really practical politician. He always has been a first rate liberal and moderate leftists greatly approve of him. As author of our original neutrality law (now considerably altered) he's extremely popular among ultra-pacifistic folk. But these groups, even combined, don't dominate national conventions against craftier managers, who want to win primarily, and are guided accordingly. They may deem it expedient to agree on a liberal or a pacifist or both when the G. O. P. picks its next leader, but not a liberal or a pacifist from a state like North Dakota. It would be too much like handing the prize to Rhode Island.

Vice presidentially, Nye has been suggested quite a bit. However, he isn't seriously even a vice presidential possibility. After a party convention has selected its nominee for first place it usually seeks to plug up some doubtful hole with a vice presidential offer. North Dakota is no such doubtful hole. It isn't doubtful at all.

Infant Statesmanship
Nevertheless, it's greatly to Senator Nye's credit that he's talked about the least bit. It implies that he's very well thought of personally, regardless of his geographical availability.

Gerald, since his advent in Washington, has labored persistently under the handicap of being classed as an infant senator.

Originally he was appointed to the upper congressional chamber to fill a vacancy at the age of 33. There have been younger senators, but not more than two or three. Now he's 48. But it always has been assumed that he's in the infant category. That stigma clings to him today, and will continue to do so if he lives to be 100.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

"IMPORTED"

I heard a story the other day which pertains to the good old bootlegging days. The story hit a famous citizen of Altadena, California, pretty hard.

During the days of prohibition that citizen met a bootlegger whose hideout was in South Pasadena, California. The bootlegger supplied him with "imported" beer which he took pleasure in serving.

On frequent occasions, he called up the bootlegger and in surprisingly quick time a car would drive up to his back door and a case of beer hurried into his kitchen. This went on for years. Then came repeal and the famous citizen quit drinking because he could no longer get any of that "imported" beer he liked so much.

Time passed, during which one of his neighbors built a line new home. Although they had lived within a block of one another for some years, the famous citizen had never met that neighbor, but when he did meet him he found him a most congenial soul. He accepted an invitation to drop in for a visit. But when the host invited him to have a drink, he declined, saying, "I hadn't taken a drink since prohibition."

"I used to get some 'imported' beer which struck me as just right," he said. "But since repeal, I can't get it, and I don't like hard liquor. There was a peculiar flavor about that beer which haunts me still."

The host and his better exchanged a glance. "Bring him what he wants," said the host. The butler vanished and re-appeared with two bottles of beer which had so charmed the famous citizen.

"I used to make it in my bathtub," explained the genial host. "And Jim here used to deliver it to you when my stooge in South Pasadena relayed your order. I used to think you were snooty then and charged you four prices. That's how we built this house."

No Major Flood Seen This Year

"Ice Patrol" Formed In 1937 Is Keeping Close Check On Rivers

NO DEEP SNOW IN MOUNTAINS

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Jan. 24.—Barring any freakish or abnormal change of weather, there is little or no danger of a major flood in western Pennsylvania at the present time, United States army engineers in the Pittsburgh office indicated today.

Gorges and sheets of ice which have locked virtually every river in the state will pass of normally with warmer weather, a spokesman said. This statement, however, was predicated on the theory that there would be no abnormal weather such as that which preceded the St. Patrick's Day flood of 1936.

At that time the heaviest rain in years and a sudden thaw brought floods and suffering to river residents.

Keep Close Tab Reports in the hands of the Pittsburgh district engineers indicated that traffic on the Allegheny, Monongahela and Ohio rivers was virtually at a standstill. There is some localized navigation on the Monongahela. It was pointed out, but this has been curtailed considerably.

broken, that all the old evils are here and new perils against womanhood, childhood and youth besides. Taxes are higher than ever before. Farmers find the market for milk decreased. The money being spent for liquor in Lawrence county today amounts per capita, man, woman and child, $24.88. This money is being taken out of legitimate channels of trade. Instead of shoes, food and clothing, he pointed out, it is being spent for a destructive torrent of liquor that brings nothing but unhappiness to the home, perplexity, grief and hunger to little children.

"You've got to take off your coat and fight," Rev. Thornton said. "When you have for your foe the liquor traffic, you can expect a dirty, bloody fight."

President Presides Mrs. W. G. Wilkins, of New Castle, president of the Lawrence County W. C. T. U., who is also a state officer, presided at the luncheon and introduced the speakers. Rev. Dr. C. N. Moore, of this city, retired Presbyterian minister, offered the blessing, and the First Methodist church ladies very efficiently served the luncheon. The following unions answered to the roll called by Mrs. B. G. Coates, and all were well represented: Central, East Brook, East Side, Ellwood City, Frances Willard, Harlansburg, Hazeldell, Highland, New Wilmington, Plaingrove, Scotland, Slippery Rock, Wayne, Arlington (a baby union just two weeks old), West Side and Wurttemberg.

Mrs. J. J. McIlwaine, of this city, led the singing and Mrs. Frederick Wedley played the piano. Mrs. Wedley was also accompanist when her sister, Mrs. George Streiber, of this city, sang as guest artist of the occasion, three beautiful numbers, "Stille Wie Die Nacht" by Bohm, "In the Luxembourg Gardens" by Morning and "In God's Own Garden" by Cooke.

INQUEST FAILS TO DEVELOP WHY WRECK OCCURRED

stated that he got out a red lantern and swung it back and forth in an attempt to flag down the engineer. He said he also threw the signal block for Train No. 89 coming in, but that the train was past the signal point and the engineer could not see it. He said he continued to swing his lantern until the collision occurred.

Engineer All Right He said that the engineer was all right when the engine went past and he could ascribe no reason why he failed to stop at the target. He also stated that once the system is set for a train coming in on the crossover from the P. & L. E., that he would be unable to change the system over until the train had passed out of the circuit. The circuit coming into the B. & O. yards is set by the P. & L. E. operator, acting on instructions known to both operators, and similarly when a train is passing from the B. & O. tracks to the P. & L. E. tracks, that the B. & O. operator sets the circuit with the full knowledge and consent of the P. & L. E. operator.

He stated that when the train known as Buffalo 94 came out onto the mainline from the east bound dispatch yard, it automatically set its red signal this side of the crossover, which could only be changed by the towerman.

Terminal Trainmaster Cable explained the way in which the train was made up and of its operation. He said that it proceeds under signal indications, namely that after it gets out onto the mainline track that the engineer receives his orders by the block system, which shows red or green lights, depending on whether he has orders to stop or proceed, which are controlled by the operator. No written orders are received unless his procedure would deviate from the ordinary, that is that he must pull out some particular siding for a passing train or obstruction. Otherwise he proceeds by signal indication.

Engineer Heard

Engineer J. W. Frizzell, of the train coming off the P. & L. E. tracks and moving into the yards, known as RT 89, which had the right of way, stated that he had started into the yards. He said he had a long drag of 117 cars in his train, and as there is a steep grade coming off the P. & L. E. tracks onto the B. & O. he had given his engine full steam. Even at that he was not traveling at a high rate of speed because of the heavy grade. At the top of the grade, he said he had received the caution block, which is a yellow signal, which meant that he could not go beyond the next signal without being prepared to stop, so he eased off, when he noticed the headlights of another engine in front of him.

Mr. Frizzell stated that he could not tell whether the engine was moving or standing still, as the lights from it blinded him.

In order to gain better vision, he said he dimmed his headlights. Even then he could not tell what the other engine was doing until he looked down at the ground and noticed from the shadow made by the outer ring of light, that it was moving towards him, so he yelled a warning to the others in the crew to jump and set the air. Then the collision occurred.

He said that when he got down out of his cab, found the other engine on top of his, that is the pilot of the other engine had run up over his pilot. He went alongside the other engine, but could not see anything for the steam blowing out the left side of the engine, and climbed around behind the tender and down the other side. He could just distinguish the arm of the engineer hanging out the window, which was waving feebly. He was unable to get into the cab of the engine, however, he stated and went down to the tower to call for help.

He said that as the engine was heaved up by the collision, the cab was forced back against the tender. A 200-pound steam line was sheared off, the contents flooding the cab.

Mr. Fox and Mr. Reed told identical stories.

Mr. Cable stated in reply to a question regarding the engineer Bowser's health, that rumors had been prevalent following the accident that Mr. Bowser had suffered a recent illness, and that an autopsy was performed in Punksutawney after the body had been shipped there for burial, which failed to reveal any functional disorder, and that it was also ascertained from his family physician that he had not been treated for any recent disorder, and as far as was known, was in good health.

Those comprising the jury, were: Robert Stratton, Charles V. Kelly, Peter Rupp, C. E. Allen, Mark Butler, and George Goff.

The program was in charge of Lecturer Frank Kelso, who introduced Walter E. Gross of the Pennsylvania Power company, who showed pictures on electrical brooding.

Cecil McConahy was named a member of the social committee for the first six months of the year. Mrs. George Hink, Mrs. R. D. Walters and David Byler were named on the resolution committee: Fred Knoll, Harold Holm and Marie Davis on the legislative committee, and Miss Edna M. Robinson was named press correspondent.

stated that he got out a red lantern and swung it back and forth in an attempt to flag down the engineer. He said he also threw the signal block for Train No. 89 coming in, but that the train was past the signal point and the engineer could not see it. He said he continued to swing his lantern until the collision occurred.

Engineer All Right He said that the engineer was all right when the engine went past and he could ascribe no reason why he failed to stop at the target. He also stated that once the system is set for a train coming in on the crossover from the P. & L. E., that he would be unable to change the system over until the train had passed out of the circuit. The circuit coming into the B. & O. yards is set by the P. & L. E. operator, acting on instructions known to both operators, and similarly when a train is passing from the B. & O. tracks to the P. & L. E. tracks, that the B. & O. operator sets the circuit with the full knowledge and consent of the P. & L. E. operator.

He stated that when the train known as Buffalo 94 came out onto the mainline from the east bound dispatch yard, it automatically set its red signal this side of the crossover, which could only be changed by the towerman.

Terminal Trainmaster Cable explained the way in which the train was made up and of its operation. He said that it proceeds under signal indications, namely that after it gets out onto the mainline track that the engineer receives his orders by the block system, which shows red or green lights, depending on whether he has orders to stop or proceed, which are controlled by the operator. No written orders are received unless his procedure would deviate from the ordinary, that is that he must pull out some particular siding for a passing train or obstruction. Otherwise he proceeds by signal indication.

Engineer Heard

Engineer J. W. Frizzell, of the train coming off the P. & L. E. tracks and moving into the yards, known as RT 89, which had the right of way, stated that he had started into the yards. He said he had a long drag of 117 cars in his train, and as there is a steep grade coming off the P. & L. E. tracks onto the B. & O. he had given his engine full steam. Even at that he was not traveling at a high rate of speed because of the heavy grade. At the top of the grade, he said he had received the caution block, which is a yellow signal, which meant that he could not go beyond the next signal without being prepared to stop, so he eased off, when he noticed the headlights of another engine in front of him.

Mr. Frizzell stated that he could not tell whether the engine was moving or standing still, as the lights from it blinded him.

Senator Borah Funeral Party Nearing Idaho

Body Is Transferred From B. & O. To Western Line At Chicago Tuesday

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—A cross-country cortege of sorrow threaded into Chicago Tuesday as the streamlined Capitol Limited arrived, bearing the body of Senator William E. Borah toward his home in Idaho.

The oaken box encasing the gray steel casket quietly was taken from the Grand Central Station to the Northwestern Station, and put aboard the Pacific Limited for the last westward journey of the "great oppositionist."

Lines of Chicagoans, gathered to pay a last tribute to the "Lion of Idaho," watched the proceedings in solemn silence. Dignitaries accompanying the body to Boise stood aside with bowed heads as the casket was loaded into a hearse.

As the Capitol Limited reached Chicago, in its baggage car, with all the simplicity for which the Idaho Senator was noted, was the boxed casket with a single wreath of white lilies and red carnations atop it.

All about the casket, however, were cardboard-crated floral pieces from those who mourned the man whose voice for half a lifetime was heard with respect by friend and foe on all issues related to foreign affairs.

No Assurance Given To Japan On Tariff Rates

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The United States government has refused to assure Japan that it will not increase customs and tariff rates when the treaty of commerce and navigation between the two countries expires on Friday, it was learned Tuesday.

Japanese Ambassador Kensei Horiuchi conferred with Assistant Secretary of State A. A. Berle for nearly an hour on general trade relations between the United States and Japan after the treaty terminates.

It was learned that the ambassador was informed that expiration of the treaty would not of itself bring about any changes in American customs duties. Nevertheless, the United States will make no definite commitments, insisting that future commercial relations between the two countries would depend entirely on developments in the Far East.

MONESSEN YOUTH FINDS MAGISTRATE HAS "BIG" HEART

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Unemployed Ferdinand Vernet, 20, of Monessen, Pa., found Tuesday that the big city where he came to seek a fortune and a job has a heart.

Arrested on a vagrancy charge when his conscience drove him to return to a lunch counter and admit the theft of a sandwich, Vernet was dismissed by Magistrate Henry A. Seffer who was touched by his story and promised to help him get work. Seffer declared that Mark Twain and Jack London, among others, began their careers with arrests for vagrancy.

After days and nights of work the office force of the county treasurer, Earl R. Wimer is beginning to see daylight in the treasurer sales preparatory. The sale is one made compulsory by the law and Wimer drew the headache as soon as he went into the office. The sale will be held February 1.

SAVATION ARMY RED TAPE SNARLS STAFF MARRIAGES

(International News Service)

CHICAGO—Courtship and marriage is a complicated procedure in the Salvation Army.

Howard Chesham, an Army captain, and his bride, a lieutenant, outlined the procedure after their marriage in Chicago.

First, no Army member can marry a non-member.

Then, no man in the Army can marry before he has attained the rank of captain.

Courtship cannot begin until the two Army members notify superiors in writing of their "serious intent." And it cannot begin before each party to the courtship has held a commission in the Salvation Army at least six months.

A "suitable" engagement period of about six months must follow the notice of "serious intent" before the couple may marry.

And the marriage ceremony itself includes the pledge to "fight together in the ranks of the Salvation Army."

France Will Not Surrender Rights Upon High Seas

(International News Service)

PARIS, Jan. 24.—With the warning that "serious friction" is possible if the Americans continue efforts to enforce their 300-mile neutral "safetyzone" France Tuesday turned down the 21-power declaration of Panama.

France's message was practically identical with the rejoinder Britain sent earlier to the new world nations' request that warring nations refrain from belligerent acts off American coasts.

France, like Britain, said she could not surrender her rights on the high seas.

Politely refusing to recognize the sea zone, the note called attention to difficulties which might arise if by unilateral action the America's refuse to give refuge or supplies to French ships.

Such measures by the western hemisphere nations, said France, would be in contrast to Dr. Gannett's assistance to the Admiral Graf Spee when the German pocket battleship found temporary haven in Montevideo after a battle with British warships.

PRACTICE HOLDUP DEFENSE

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA—Scaring employees and citizens present, a squad of men dashed into the Philadelphia city treasurer's office in City Hall with drawn guns. Arms started going up but were sheepishly withdrawn as the leader of the gunmen said, "It's all right. We're only practicing." The raiders turned out to be members of the city treasurer's defense corps putting on their monthly practice session, designed to outwit holdup men bent on snatching the city's funds. Municipal workers said even the cops sometimes get fooled by the little drama.

MORE SUPERSTITIONS

Many of the superstitions to which mankind clings are helpful in getting individuals over rough spots in life. They are "It's darkest before dawn" ideas in which many find comfort, and as long as they remain harmless in their potentialities I see no reason for disturbing anyone's faith in them. But there are some superstitions capable of working great harm on individuals, that I feel I must take a shot at every time I encounter them.

One is belief, apparently widespread, that the sicker the mother is during pregnancy, the healthier will be the child she bears. That to me is a dangerous belief for any one to hold. Actually the reverse of this is nearer the truth. The well-being of the child depends almost entirely on the health of the mother during pregnancy. An idea that encourages a mother to endure great discomfort in the mistaken belief that she is thereby benefitting her child, is something to be combated.

I had a concrete example of this in my own practice. A man called to tell me that his wife was about to have a baby. At their home I found the poor woman in a critical condition. Her legs and arms were swollen from self-poisoning, and her labor brought the most terrible pain. The baby died, but I managed to save the mother's life after working with her for hours.

Her condition had been bad enough to have been alarming for a number of weeks, and I naturally asked her and the husband why they hadn't sent for me sooner. Her answer was pitiful: "Neighbors all told me it was alright for me to be sick, that my baby would be all the healthier for it." When I told her that her dependence on this utterly ridiculous superstition had probably cost the life of her baby, she was heart-broken.

Another superstition, fortunately less dangerous, is that every child is born with a birthmark—if you search for it you'll find it. None of the Quintuplets had birthmarks except Marie—that is, she seemed to have a birthmark. But as she grew older and we examined the mark on her thigh further, we found that it was a tumor. It was removed with a radium. Here were five children born at once, not one with a birthmark.

Another superstition that annoys me is "bad, disobedient children grow into the best citizens." That I consider, is just a face-saver for parents having disobedient children. Allowing children to be disobedient is a good way to insure that they won't grow up into good citizens. Good citizens aren't born, they are made by careful training, particularly in respect for the rights for others and in obedience. If this weren't true the best thing to do would be to do away with all schools and all home training and let children run wild.

"If a child cries a lot it is good for him because it means he is developing healthy lungs." This is another common superstition. Now a lot of crying is done by spoiled children, and I wouldn't quarrel with such a belief except that the baby's cry may be a signal of something significant. He may be stuck by a pin, pinched by clothes, or discomforted by his stomach. Crying shouldn't be disregarded for the silly reason quoted above. There is also a false belief, by the way, that very young children do not shed tears when they cry. They certainly do from the minute they are born.

Similarly annoying to me is the superstition that a child must have all the so-called children's diseases like measles, mumps, whooping cough and chicken-pox at some time, and that the sooner he gets them over with the better. This might have some support by physicians a hundred years ago, in the days of larger families and before the discoveries of vaccines, antitoxin and other control measures. But we know it is silly to believe it today. Fatalities from these diseases are nearly always greater in children than in adults. No child should ever have any disease from which it can possibly be protected.

ROAD BUILDING
Shows Increase

Pennsylvania Road Program
Furthered Because Of Economies

HARRISBURG, Jan. 24.—Records of the State Highway Department show that 1840.44 miles of road on the state system were improved during 1939. That figure compares with an annual average of 1247.18 miles during the previous four years.

Last year the Department constructed or rebuilt 654.32 miles of highway. There were 61.12 miles resurfaced and 250 miles of surface widening completed. The mileage of road completed under the Department's WPA sponsored program was 875 as compared with an annual average of 213.75 miles in the previous four years.

During the year 299.95 miles of new highway was completed under contract.

For 1940 the Department in addition to contributing more than $5,000,000 to finance its regular federal-aid work has a program calling for the expenditure of $3,148,000 of its own funds for new highway improvement. In addition $2,000,000 more will be spent on rural roads from the Department's funds. Those two programs are made possible through economies in operating the Department.

Gettysburg Times Gives Printing Press Made During Colonial Days

HARRISBURG, Jan. 24.—Secretary of Commerce Richard P. Brown today announced a Ramage press, reputed to be the oldest American-made printing press in existence, will be added to the collection of the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia.

The presentation will be made at 2 p. m. next Sunday by the Times and News publishing company, Gettysburg, in whose plant the press has been stored since it last was used almost 50 years ago. It will be placed in the institute's Colonial printshop, which contains printing equipment and furniture used by Benjamin Franklin.

The press was made by Adam Ramage, a Scot who came to Philadelphia in 1790. Although its precise date of manufacture is unknown, it is certain the press was made in the early 1790s. Unlike most presses, which then were of British manufacture and made entirely of wood, the Ramage press consisted of a platen and bed of iron and a frame of Honduras mahogany.

Big Ice Gorges Jam Ohio River

CINCINNATI Jan. 24.—Ice gorges, the worst in 22 years, jammed the Ohio river for more than 100 miles tonight. They were so extensive the stream dug new channels.

United States army engineers described the formations as the most serious since the winter of 1917-18 when hundreds of river craft were crushed and sunk, but saw no immediate danger.

An island of ice extended 70 miles from above the Gallipolis dam to Long Bottom, O., and another, three to four feet above the water-level, was piled 37 miles from Ulica to Vevay, Ind. It was here, engineers said, that ice patrols found evidence the stream was digging new passage-ways.

The Ohio was below pool stage along virtually its entire 980-mile length and Beckley, W. Va., residents faced what Mayor A. K. Miner described as the "worst water shortage in 35 years" with supplies 65 per cent of normal.

Biting a persimmon will cause a puckering of the mouth.

Certain drugs cause mild shrinkage of the skin layers.

Those applied to the mouth and throat are "astringents."

Alum is such a drug and there are many others.

When applied the skin loses some of its sensitiveness.

Used to check small hemorrhages, these drugs are called "styptics."

If they form larger blood clots they are "coagulants."

Sticks of alum and silver nitrate or copper sulfate are used.

They are then "hermostatics" which check the oozing of blood.

They may be used to destroy surface layers of ulcers.

Other infections or inflamed areas are treated with drugs.

Then they are known as cautery or caustic.

The action is described as "cauterization."

Big Ice Gorges Jam Ohio River CINCINNATI Jan. 24.—Ice gorges, the worst in 22 years, jammed the Ohio river for more than 100 miles tonight. They were so extensive the stream dug new channels.

United States army engineers described the formations as the most serious since the winter of 1917-18 when hundreds of river craft were crushed and sunk, but saw no immediate danger.

An island of ice extended 70 miles from above the Gallipolis dam to Long Bottom, O., and another, three to four feet above the water-level, was piled 37 miles from Ulica to Vevay, Ind. It was here, engineers said, that ice patrols found evidence the stream was digging new passage-ways.

The Ohio was below pool stage along virtually its entire 980-mile length and Beckley, W. Va., residents faced what Mayor A. K. Miner described as the "worst water shortage in 35 years" with supplies 65 per cent of normal.

Gov. James Made Virtual Ruler Of Anthracite Mining

Miners-Operators Reach Agreement

Hope New Program Will Aid In Solving Hard Coal Problems

PERCENTAGE BASIS FOR MINING REACHED

By EVERETT GERRY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Jan. 24.—Made virtual ruler over grimy anthracite, Gov. Arthur H. James today charted a recovery course for Pennsylvania's hard hit, billion-dollar hard coal industry.

The governor, boomed by his neighbors to run for the Republican nomination for president, was granted sweeping authority under a stabilization plan approved by mine operators and the United Mine Workers.

Agreement Reached
According to the agreement, to which John L. Lewis, U. M. W. head and C. I. O. chieftain, was a signatory, 72 operators representing 95 per cent of the industry voluntarily agreed to a production quota for each week based on their average daily tonnage output for the last two years.

Governor James will serve on and appoint all members of a nine-man committee to police the industry, although he will be required to select three from a panel submitted by the operators and three from a panel submitted by the mine union.

He was given authority to remove any member of the committee for inability to act, inefficiency, neglect of duty, or misconduct in office.

Remedy For "Bootlegging"

Producers who ratified the proposal to mine on a percentage basis saw in the plan a remedy for the so-called bootleg coal problem. They hoped to employ the miners who produced between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 tons of bootleg anthracite last year.

Operators must report weekly the amount of coal mined, total tons in storage and amount of unsold coal.

The agreement sets up no punishment for violations, but depends for its effectiveness on the pledges of the operators and the power of the United Mine Workers.

Plan Worker Out
Percentages in the agreement, known as the "anthracite emergency program," were worked out by a committee of six operators and six mine union officials, including Lewis and former Lieut. Gov. Thomas Kennedy, who is secretary of the U. M. W. A.

There is also planned an anthracite producers advisory board consisting of 14 members to be named by the operators.

An executive committee of three on Monday of each week will submit to each cooperating producer an estimate or forecast of the production requirements of the commercial sizes of anthracite for that week for the industry as a whole, and for producers committed to the allotment plan.

Must Report Mining
By the 10th of each month, each operator must report on the quantity of coal he has mined, number of men employed at each breaker, mine and washery, and the number of seven-hour days worked at each of these operations.

Books and records of each cooperating producer must be made available for inspection by a committee named to check the accuracy of reports. Twenty-three small producers declined to join the plan embraced by the 73 large operators, the governor was informed.

Among the firms which agreed to quota production were the Lehigh Navigation Coal company, Glen Alden Coal Co., East Bear Ridge Collieries Co., Philadelphia and Reading Coal & Iron Co., Susquehanna Collieries Co., Lehigh Valley Coal Co., Hudson Coal Co., and Pennsylvania Coal Co.

May Drop Nine Or Ten C. C. C. Camps In State

By ARTHUR C. WIMLER
(Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Pennsylvania will lose nine or 10 of its 49 CCC camps if budget bureau recommendations are approved by congress.

The 1941 budget, for the fiscal year commencing next July 1, slashes CCC funds by $64,955,000. Under this appropriation, CCC camps would be cut from 1500 to 1227 in number, a loss of 273 camps.

This loss, according to CCC officials, would be distributed uniformly to the states on the basis of about a one-fifth reduction.

Thus in the Keystone state, nine or 10 camps would be closed. Congressional resentment against the proposed curtailment is strong, and many observers are convinced congress will insist upon voting a full appropriation, thereby retaining the present number of camps. The showdown is expected shortly.

Few New Liquor Licenses Being Issued In State

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Jan. 24.—There has been a sensational decrease in the number of new liquor and beer licenses issued in Pennsylvania, State Liquor Board officials disclosed today.

A 93 per cent decline was noted in 1939.

The new licensing quota law, enacted by the 1939 legislature in an effort to halt the alarming increase in the number of liquor and beer establishments, appeared to be having phenomenal success.

Hailed by liquor board officials as a great aid in the enforcement of the liquor laws, the new act, which went into effect June 24 of last year, has reduced the number of new licenses issued in Pennsylvania in 1939 by half in six short months.

Of the 1176 new licenses issued during 1939, a total of 1100 were issued in the first six months before the law went into effect. At that rate the total for 1939 would have approximated the 2,358 new licenses issued in 1938.

But once the new law went into effect, the results were startling. From June 24 until the end of 1939, only 76 new licenses were issued.

Liquor board officials appeared hopeful that at the present rate they would soon be able to "freeze" the number. They estimated there were now more than 20,000 beer and liquor licenses in effect in Pennsylvania.

Matheny School Damaged By Fire

Opposite Walls Of Wayne
Township Building Discovered Afire In Same Manner

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 24.—Only the quick response of the Ellwood City fire department, which under the leadership of chief, Harry V. Wolfe, unhesitatingly answered an out-of-the-boro call for aid, saved the Matheny school of Wayne township, located on the Ellwood-Wampum road, from being destroyed by fire Tuesday morning.

The fire was first discovered on the outside wall of the building, near the chimney, by Mrs. Martha D. Saum, one of the two teachers in the building. Mrs. Saum called the other teacher, Mrs. Janet Friday, and they led the children, frightened but orderly, out of the structure.

It was then discovered that the other end of the building was afire in the same manner, although there was no connection between the two blazes according to Chief Wolfe.

The two rooms were heated by large stoves, which apparently had been overheated, causing the laith about the two chimneys to smoulder for sometime before breaking into blaze.

The fire department took the booster supply tank to the fire and with the invaluable aid of nearby residents who formed a bucket brigade, water being supplied by a well, to keep the tank filled with water, were able to quickly bring the blaze under control, before very much damage resulted.

School has been dismissed at the building until repairs have been completed.

25th Anniversary Marked By Kiwanis

Birthday Of International Organization Observed With Special Program

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 24.—The silver anniversary of Kiwanis International was celebrated last evening by the local club at their weekly dinner meeting in the Trinity Lutheran church dining room, with many members and guests participating.

The organization was founded in Detroit by Allan Brown, with the motto, "We Trade". The first convention was held in 1916 in Cleveland, and at the convention held 1918 at Providence, R. I., plans were laid for changing the organization from a trade to a service club. In 1919, at the convention held in Birmingham, Ala., the original rights were purchased from Mr. Brown and the motto changed to "We Build", with the purpose of higher ideals and objective of character building. Today there are 21,000 members in the International association.

Dr. H. E. Helling, past lieutenant-governor and many times president of the local club, read the names of the charter members, and J. Ellis Bell announced the past presidents: Charles Iseman, Charles Reilly, H. E. Helling, L. E. Springer, Ray Smith, T. B. Magee, Charles Carbeau, G. B. Hancher, Howard McClymonds, Dave Hamilton, Boyd Barrett, Charles Smith, Helson Runyan, Ellis Bell, H. S. Gold, Ralph Main, and the president today, Dr. H. R. Sumner.

Beaver Falls, past Kiwanis governor, was the speaker, with his theme being "Speak to the Child of Israel, that they go forward". He compared the present times with those of the Bible, and told the members that they must look forward to building manhood if they are to help save the nation. The government is not the support of the people, but the people are the support of the government, and care should be taken in selecting leaders.

Former Kiwanians attending were Dave Hamilton, L. E. Springer, Dr. T. B. Magee, Walter Landgraf, and guests were Ellwood Helling, Ernest Hartman, Bob Haines, this city, and Harold Gilroy, Beaver Falls.

An invitation to attend an address by Major Al Williams next Monday night at the Shelby auditorium was received from the Foreman's club of the National Tube company and accepted.

Dr. H. S. Gold was last night's prize-winner.

Armstrong And Pedro Montanez To Fight Tonight

Welter-Weight Crown At Stake In Madison Square Garden Box In New York

CURRENT CHAMP FAVORITE TO WIN

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Henry Armstrong, a spindly-shanked little Negro who wanted to be a doctor and who compromised with himself to the extent of becoming a poet and writer of sorts, tossed aside the implements of a struggling idealist tonight to bash and batter to the best of his ability a challenger for the one remaining world's boxing championship he holds. Briefly, he meets Pedro Montanez, an intricate Puerto Rican, in defense of the welterweight championship and is a 1 to 3 favorite to win somehow, and an even money bet to score a knock-out.

Armstrong, one of the most amazing fighters in the long history of pugilism, will be making his 15th defense of the 147-pound crown, and with that adding to a string that shows he has made more defenses than 11 previous champions of the division combined. He also won and voluntarily relinquished the featherweight title, won, defended and finally lost the lightweight title and is pursuing a campaign which probably has never been matched.

Montanez is Tough
His opponent this evening is a rough and tough free-wheeler who is particularly adept at body-punching but none too good in the clutch, hence the one-sided odds. Moreover, Montanez cuts easily around the eyes and probably will be clashed plenty by gloves or Armstrong's liberal application of his head in close.

In defense of Montanez it can be pointed out that he has lost only two fights in the last eight years and of 34 fights here he has scored knockouts in more than half of his starts. He is plenty tough, but, of course, hasn't met an Armstrong before. Montanez' only previous title battle was with Lou Ambers in 1937, when he lost a 15-round decision in quest of the lightweight crown. Since then he has grown into a legitimate welterweight.

Armstrong, as many suspect, probably is slipping by this time, but still should be able to take the likes of Montanez, enroute to an eventual crack at Ceferino Garcia's middleweight title. He already has whipped Garcia and may be able to do it again with the result that he would be the only man ever to win four world championships.

Mack Is Bidding For Benny McCoy

Veteran Connie Will Give Rookie $40,000 And Two-Year Contract

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24.—Connie Mack, veteran A's manager, today apparently was high bidder for the services of Benny McCoy, much-coveted second baseman recently declared a free agent by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis.

"We're doing business with McCoy," announced Mack as he revealed his son, Earl, will go to Grandville, Mich., McCoy's home, with a blank contract late this week. The 77-year-old manager reportedly offered the former Detroit player a $40,000 bonus and a two-year contract for $10,000 annually.

Connie admitted he offered to better any other proposition McCoy receives from a major league club—ten of which are after his signature. McCoy had been traded to the A's by the Tigers for Outfielder Wally Moses but the deal was nullified by Landis' edict.

Meanwhile, reports said that Manager Bill Terry, of the New York Giants, had telephoned an offer of a $40,000 bonus, but no mention was made of a two-year contract such as Mack held forth. McCoy, who hit .305 for Detroit last year, is expected to make his decision early next week.

New Castle Hi Trims Butler By Score 37-31

Gennock, Cowden And Lauro Lead New Castle Attack

LAST GAME FOR BOMBYK-LAURO

New Castle High School basketball team went to Butler last night and brought home a 37 to 31 victory in a Section Three game that saw Ray Bombyk and Lindy Lauro performing for the last time as New Castle players. John "Rags" Gennock was the outstanding star of the game caging 13 of the local points.

By their win the New Castle High boys still have a mathematical chance of at least tying Ambridge for the Section Three championship, providing Ambridge can be defeated here next Friday and that one of the other teams can defeat the "Bridgers."

Bad First Period

New Castle got away to a bad start in the first period, trailing 10 to 3. Gennock had a field goal and Lauro a foul for the only New Castle points. Dorcy the Butler center went on a scoring spree in the first stanza and rang up three field goals, with Andrews making two for the ten points.

Both teams had plenty of shots, but the ball would just not stay in the basket. Both teams had a strong defense working and were forced to shoot from the middle of the court.

New Castle Leads At Half
The second period was a far different story. Gennock got "Hot" and rang up four field goals in rapid order that had the Butlers bewildered. Lauro made a couple of field goals and Cowden supplied a foul for the 13 points. Butler had a bad period in the second session, just as New Castle had been off the first period and made but two points to give New Castle the lead at the first half 16 to 12.

New Castle was a much improved team in the second period and seemed to be breaking through the Butler defense better than they did in the first period.

New Castle was a much improved team in the second period and seemed to be breaking through the Butler defense better than they did in the first period.

Nip and Tuck Battle
It was a nip and tuck game in the third stanza with the locals managing to stay in front. The session ended 30 to 22. Eddie Cowden, Ray Bombyk and Lauro all supplied two field goals apiece, while Al Bucci had a field goal also.

For the butler team in the third period the best work was done by the Jannotti brothers each making three points. Dorcy and Brown each had a field goal for the Soapminers.

New Castle was content to try and keep their lead in the fourth and final period and managed to score seven more points while doing so, with Butler outscoring the locals 9 to 7, but not enough to overcome the big advantage that the Bridenbaughmen had piled up in the second and third periods.

Ambridge Next In League
Gennock and Cowden did all of the New Castle scoring in the final period. Andrews playing his last game for Butler at guard had three points as his farewell to scholastic basketball in the last period, making a total of seven for the night.

He was the best Butler man on the floor along with Dorcy the center who had eight points.

New Castle's next game will be Saturday night with Youngstown South. The next Section Three game here will be Friday night February 2.

Sports World Ramblings

Main Stem Cites and Sights:

"Fris" Fraser stops by to inform your newsboy that he hasn't located the type of a basketball prospect desired by a certain southern school. Fraser, who has helped quite a few localities get an education because of their ability on the basketball court or football field, repeats that the lad must be over six feet tall and must be able to play "a fair country game of basketball". He asks about Paul Minner. We informed him that the southern institution would like "Gulliver" no end. But, the catch is that Minner is a mere lad of 17, standing 6 feet 5 inches and happens to be a Junior in New Wilmington High. "He'd fill the order nicely, don't you think?" queried Fraser. An how!

Johnny Dean, New Castle's singing marine, jubilant as ever. Dean has been promised the semi-final bout in a Youngstown show to be staged February 6. "Boy, I'm ready for action. I have been training like a Trojan for several weeks. I've had a bad run of luck. Everytime I get a match, something happens. I've got my fingers crossed," the handsome local gladiator said. New Castle's Mike Jacobs, Tommy Leach, telling all and sundry that he is making an effort to get all the Sun-Tide Golden Glove champs here. "Boy, wouldn't that be a show of shows?" Tommy opines.

The gent in the center of the huddle is Frankie Ross, the ex-star baseballer, telling a few tall ones cleaned over a flock of years on the diamond. Ross can't understand why the game has declined in popularity here. In his travels, Ross explained that it's hard to find a town which doesn't have adequate facilities. He did admit that New Castle is one of the few towns. The sprightly looking gent, attired in true Beau Brummel style, is George Perrotta, the ex-middleweight slugger who met the best of them in his days. He reveals that his weight is the same as when he tossed leather throughout the country. The secret? "Occasionally I slip into a gymnasium for a workout. I still get that feeling," George remarks.

Mail Bag Department: To Buck: New Castle High last played Union Township in basketball on March 2, 1934. The Scotland Lancers lost, 45-18. The Union roster consisted of: Walt Hughes, Dom Monier, George Schaas, Rudesill, Paul Morrison, Wayne White and Ed Todd. Since I did not see Union's team in action that year, I can not venture an opinion. Friend Tom Petral of 1305 Second avenue, Beaver Falls, says his Delmar Club is open for games with all fast teams in the city. Petral is anxious to book his club against the Gersons and Boosters. To West Pittsburg table tennis team: Will write to you within a day or so on matter. Charles Maletta, Ellwood City, informs the writer that the Shelby All Stars are billed for a clash with the Boosters in Ellwood City, Friday, January 26, starting at 8:30 o'clock in Shelby auditorium.

Two Wild 'Dogs' Dug From Hole

Local Sportsmen Hunt For Fox But Found Strange Animals Instead

PROBABLY CROSS BRED WITH FOXES

I. R. "Pappy" Gibson, Elder McCormick, Harry McCormick, Ralph McCormick, William Mansfield and Rev. J. Calvin Rose all members of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association participated in a fox hunt near Mt. Air, yesterday that ended up with two wild dogs, as their reward.

The men tramped the biggest part of the day with only a couple of foxes routed. Later in the day they struck on what appeared to be a fresh fox track. But the dogs refused to tongue on the trail. So the men followed the track into a hill side, and heard what they thought was the fox down deep in its den. Soon shovels and picks were secured from a nearby farm house, and the men had a hole three or four feet deep in the hill.

"Pappy" Gibson, spied what was supposed to be a fox, and as these hunters like to catch their quarry alive, he reached into the pit and dragged out the funniest looking fox they had ever seen. Deeper into the pit the men dug and found the second. Both were brought to New Castle, and can be seen at Mr. Gibson's residence on Croton avenue.

Many have already viewed these strange animals, and some have come to the conclusion that they have probably been crossed with dog and fox. Their coats are more like fur, rather than that of a dog. Their tails are also like that of a fox rather than dog. At first when they were retrieved from their dark underground home, they fought and acted like any wild fox would have done. This was a nice piece of conservation work, as these animals have no doubt lived on wild game until these hunters came along.

Gersons To Play Goldenson Girls

The Gerson basketball team will play the Goldenson Girls team of Pittsburgh, state champions, here next Sunday at the Arena floor. It was announced today by Manager Walter Perch. The Pittsburgh girls will give the Gersons a tough game.

The Goldensons have lost but one game this year and that to Stella Walsh and her American Olympic team of Cleveland. The Goldensons have scored 419 points to date in nine games to 181 for their opponents.

Union Trounces Hickory Cagers

Scotland Lancers Pile Up 41-22 Victory On Tuesday Evening

With Pilch and Chiafullo potting 21 points between them, Union Township's smooth cage machine sidetracked Hickory, 41-22, Tuesday night at Hickory.

The local flippers grabbed the lead at the start of the fast clash and never gave it up. Fast and accurate passing by both teams highlighted the tilt.

Severa's back court defensive work was chiefly responsible for Union's scoring opportunities. Gaus and Tally were the best bets for the losers.

Friday night, Union resumes its fight for Section 20 honors, playing at Wampum.

MAGNATE DIES

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Jan. 24.—Funeral arrangements were under way Tuesday for Otto Wolff, German steel magnate, who died at Essen after a lengthy illness at the age of 59. An industrial rival of the late Hugo Stinnes, Wolff at one time controlled interests employing some 1,000,000 men. In 1922 he advanced a $5,000,000 credit to Russia.

Dies Committee Faces Many Probe Demands

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The Dies committee, with its life extended until January 3, 1941, will be confronted with demands for investigations in many fields, members indicated today.

A new program will be mapped out soon after Chairman Martin Dies (D-Texas), recuperating now at his home, returns to Washington. He is expected within a week. The house voted continuation of the committee yesterday 345 to 21.

Investigation of Communist and Nazi activities on the Pacific coast was expected to be the first big field of operations for the committee. Its investigators have charged that communists have made inroads in the Hollywood movie colony and among state and federal employees on the Pacific coast.

Two members of the committee, Reps. Dempsey (D-New Mexico) and Casey (D-Massachusetts), proposed that the committee announce a series of open hearings and invite all persons who have been accused by committee witnesses of Fascist, Communist or Nazi activities, to appear.

Drastic revision of committee procedure, interpreted by some members as a slap at Chairman Dies, also will be proposed in the first executive session of the committee. Rep. Voorhis (D-California), plans to ask the committee to adopt rules of procedure which include a ban upon statements and predictions by members without approval of the full committee or positive evidence to support their assertions.

Morgenthau Asks U. S. Debt Limit Of Fifty Billions

Proposes That Limit Be Increased From $45,000,000,000 Present Limit

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, in testimony released by the house appropriations committee, proposed that the national debt limit be raised to $50,000,000,000. It now is $45,000,000,000.

He declined to say what he would recommend in the event that Congress continued deficit financing and the debt limit passed $50,000,000,000. He urged, however, the balancing of the budget through economies and increased taxes.

Asked by Rep. McLeod (R), Michigan, in hearings on the treasury post office supply bill, whether there would be danger of inflation after the debt reached $50,000,000,000 Morgenthau replied:

"I am willing to say now that there is no particularly danger involved if Congress would raise the debt limit to $50,000,000,000. Beyond that I would not venture an opinion."

The nation, Morgenthau said, would face a "serious situation" if the debt passed present limits and Congress failed to act. President Roosevelt, he said, would have authority to issue $6,000,000,000 of paper money and silver certificates.

Morgenthau suggested that general expenditures be reduced as armament expenditures increased. He mentioned reduction of roads and public works expenditures as examples of economies that could be effected.

Morgenthau testified that government bond refunding operations have been satisfactory, despite the outbreak of the European war. Banks have increased their holdings of government securities by $2,000,000,000 in the past year, the committee was told.

Stating that any forecast of business trends is difficult because of the war, Morgenthau said that his guess is that business in 1940 will be at least as good as that during the past year.

Some Schools Are Closed By Snow

SOMERSET, Pa., Jan. 24.—More than 1,400 pupils got a holiday yesterday with the closing down of two consolidated high schools because of snow, which had drifted four and six feet deep on some Somerset county rural roads. Attendance was only 20 to 25 per cent of normal at most other county schools.

The Berlin-Brothers Valley school at Berlin and the Stony Creek school at Shanksville were closed. Only four of the 13 buses which take children to the Conemaugh township school at Davidville were able to make their trips.

Director Chosen By Penn Power Chorus

L. F. Hemingway, an employee at the sub-station, was chosen last night as director of the new Penn Power Men's Chorus, at the organization meeting in the Y. W. C. A.

Mr. Hemingway, formerly of Mercer, directed a men's chorus in that community with great success.

The Penn Power Men can thank their lucky star also for giving them the pianist-perfect, Dan Heitzer, another bona fide employee.

Withal, the chorus had a very vigorous start. A rehearsal was held, and the 17 voices proved to have plenty of volume. Next Tuesday night at 7:30 the men will meet in the home service building of their company.
